

CONSENSUAL ROMANTIC AND SEXUAL RELATIONSHIP POLICY BETWEEN STAFF MEMBERS

Effective Date: February 2013

Policy Statement

Staff members at Columbia should not participate in hiring, supervision, employment actions, evaluation, decisions pertaining to promotion or the direct setting of salary or wages¹ for someone employed at Columbia with whom that person has or has had a consensual romantic or sexual relationship except in unusual circumstances and with the explicit approval of the Vice President of Human Resources in consultation with the Office of the General Counsel.

Employees should be aware that entering into such a relationship with a person who may direct or control his or her work creates the potential for risk to both parties.

In the event that a personal relationship of this kind does exist in a supervisory context, the supervisor must disclose the relationship to the appropriate superior and initiate arrangements to address any issues of conflict of interest.

A supervising staff member who violates this policy will be subject to disciplinary action up to and including termination.

Staff and faculty concerned about a consensual romantic or sexual relationship in violation of this policy are encouraged to speak with their chair, the dean, or other head of unit, the Associate Provost for Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action (EOAA) or a Human Resources (HR) Client Manager.

Reason(s) for the Policy

The purpose of this policy is to address the issue of consensual romantic or sexual relationships between staff members in our community, prevent any conflict of interest from occurring to the fullest extent possible, and set forth procedures to be followed if such conflict occurs.

Policy Text

Columbia University's educational mission is promoted by the professionalism of its staff. This professionalism is reflected not only in the quality of the exchanges between staff members but also in the nature of their interactions as members of an academic community. Staff members have an obligation of responsible self-discipline, one which acknowledges the power some staff members exercise over others and the importance of protecting against its abusive or exploitative use.

Consensual romantic and sexual relationships between staff members pose a threat to professionalism in situations where they compromise, or appear to compromise, a staff member's judgment of those subject to his or her authority. A similar threat exists when they lead or are perceived to lead to preferential treatment of one staff member over another. In these circumstances, they can be detrimental to the affected individuals, including staff members outside of the relationship, and can injure the University and its reputation. Further, where there is a power differential, romantic or sexual relationships between staff members are susceptible to being characterized as non-consensual or coercive, especially when they end, opening up the possibility of a charge of sexual harassment or sexual assault. Should a consensual romantic or sexual relationship between staff members lead to a charge of sexual harassment or sexual assault, the University is obligated to investigate and resolve the charge in accordance with the University's Employment Policies and Procedures on Discrimination and Harassment, a copy of which may be found on line at: <http://eoaa.columbia.edu/employment-nondiscrimination-policies>.
